FANTASY FOOTBALL “EXPERT” BY NIGHT

Reston, VA (December 23, 2014) — In a playoff run that was described as “miraculous” and “unbelievable” by his co-workers and peers, Project Manager Grid Gremi capped an exciting inaugural season of the Orr Fantasy Football League by defeating Vice President Dan Strotman 143 to 122 to win the championship. Gremi, whose team was a non-threatening 6-7 during the regular season, was the 8th seed of 8 teams and entered the playoff with the fewest points scored by any team for the entire season. “We just took it one day at a time, kept chopping wood, gave 110% and slapped some lipstick on a pig,” stated Gremi in a cliché riddled statement. “At the end of the day, it’s about competing for a championship,” he added.

Calls to the commissioner regarding speculation of tampering by Gremi were unreturned, since Gremi is the commissioner. “We congratulate Grid on his perseverance,” stated Chairman David Orr. “Most people with Grid’s team would have stopped submitting a line-up five weeks into the season. We are proud of Grid for sticking with it and competing,” added President Scott Siegel.
